Len Hall Elected Mayor in First Town Election

LAC LA BICHE. — William Cadzow was defeated in his bid for re-election as mayor of Lac la Biche here Monday when he polled only 48 votes to 99 votes cast for Len Hall.

GENERAL Chas, Foulkes conferred for several hours with Gen. Eisenhower when the chief of North Atlantic pact forces was in Ottawa. No 'desk' general, Foulkes is a fighting leader.

Six councillors were also elected.

L. Badry, C. Lebas, M. MacCagno, T. A. Tkalchuk, M. McHitty and H. Hamar were successful in seeking a seat on council. Unsuccessful in their bids were J. Stewart and Mr. Proctor.

It was the first election to be held since Lac la Biche became a town.

The election was a quiet one, yet great interest was shown on election day and voting was heavy.

Mr. Badry received 79 votes, Mr. McCagno 79 votes, Mr. Lebas 78 votes, Mr. Tkalchuk 72 votes, Mr. McHitty 65 votes, and Mr. Hamar 64 votes.

Among unsuccessful candidates, Mr. Kelly received 58 votes, Mr. Proctor 52 votes, and Mr. Stewart 40 votes.

Returning officer for the election was A. Weeras, and polling clerk was M. Schester.

Keen interest was shown as the votes were counted following the closing of the polls, and crowds lined the street near the polling centre.

Voting was heavy, and MLA H. Lobay even left the session in the legislature long enough to travel to Lac la Biche to cast his ballot.

The new council will meet for the first time Monday night.

"So they were until Harry got into the habit of getting all of them downtown."

Hockey Prospects Look Brighter

BRIEREVILLE.—We are expecting another team on the Briereville ice again. It's Spedden this time to play hockey. About a month ago we were expecting McRae. Oh yes they showed up, but alas! we had no rink as it had never been looked after, and there must have been a foot of snow on it. Come on boys, smarten up and get those hockey games played.

Oour mail days are changed now to Tuesday and Saturday and our mail driver is Steve Keeler of Grandon.

A number of people attended the funeral of the late Mr. R. Whitford of Lac la Biche. We of Briereville extend our deepest sympathy to Mrs. Whitford and her family in their bereavement.

Our new school van driver to Lac la Biche is Paul Gabere! Happy motoring Paul.

Miss J. Bell of McRae is working for Mrs. E. Whelen and Miss S. Huppie of Grandin is working for Mrs. H. Liddle.

Mr. Bill Anderson of Edmonton was down to the district for a few days this week. We do hope to see them back in the spring.

Norman Whitford has his truck home again after having it in St. Paul to get it repaired.

Mr. L. Thompson of Kikino was in the district lately. He was out to buy some feed. Quite a few farmers are going to be out of feed before spring as the hay fields were rather poor last fall.

Bud Graham met with "John Flu" the other day, but is feeling fine again. Mr. J. Caron wasn't feeling so good either. Most of the people can consider they're lucky, as I don't think the 'flu is really serious here like it is in other parts of the country.

Beavers Are Well Established At Cole Lake

McRAE.—Four years ago the government placed four beavers in Cole Lake, where Joseph Jackson of Goodfish Lake, a treaty Indian has a trapping lease. These beavers have established themselves and they now have seven houses. Indiscriminating firing of the timber has killed practically all the green timber along the edges of the lake. We wonder what the beaver will do, when the green timber is all gone.

A vicious circle. Large trapping areas cover all vacant government land, mostly held by treaty Indians, where the low price of coyotes and wolves pelts did not encourage trapping. These animals bred unmolested and destroyed farmers stock. The ranchers and farmers burned the timber and brush to rid themselves of these pests. One hundred dollars per year in leases costs thousands of dollars in timber values. Other thousands in losses to farmers cattle and sheep. Besides the effects of drought and erosion.

Feild and Davis Construction contractors moved their outfit from McRae to Spedden. This outfit has been left on the side of the road since last September three miles from the nearest farmer. No caretaker, speaks well for the country as nothing was touched in all that time.

Mr. George Bobecel broke his truck, plowing snow drifts with a load of pulpwood on Monday. Had to abandon his load on the road side, till something can be done about clearing the snow.

Mr. Washington House has located a farm in the McRae district on Cole Lake, where he will have range for his stock.

Challenge to Albertans

Throughout the 37 year-old history of the Canadian Red Cross Society in Alberta, the people of the province have met many challenges, and not been found waiting. During the First World War, during the depression of the '30's, during the Second World War and up to the present time, Albertans have shown that they are Red Cross workers. No ideal has been too high-reaching for them to attain.

Because of the work it does, Red Cross must continue. It is Red Cross that gives Albertans free Blood Transfusion Service, Junior Red Cross, Disaster Relief, Outpost Hospitals, Veterans Aid, Swimming and Water Safety and care to their crippled children.

This work must be continued for the good of all. No one knows when disaster will strike, when illness will require bottles of blood and plasma, when the babe in your house will need orthopedic care beyond your finances.

This year, Red Cross is asking Albertans to contribute $400,000 to continue its work. Red Cross is planning to spend in Alberta this year, a total of nearly $600,000.

The care of crippled children looms foremost in the minds of Alberta people at present for it is this year, on March 3, that Alberta's Red Cross Crippled Children's Hospital will formally open its doors. Its support is up to Albertans, for while it is true that the hospital is necessary, it is equally true that we must not fail in helping its running expenses.

There is no more worthy work than that of Red Cross. When you contribute to its yearly campaign, you are merely paying a premium to ensure that the "work of mercy never ends".

Conscription

The Prime Minister has turned thumbs down on proposals for immediate institution of compulsory military service. While supporting the principle of compulsory military training, he says it is not a military necessity now and would place an undue burden on our national economy.

We admire Mr. St. Laurent for speaking out for conscription, in spite of criticism he is bound to get from his own people in Quebec. We never could understand why anyone would not want conscription for home defence. Certainly if the top brass among the military in Ottawa think it is necessary, no considerations of political expediency should cause a day's delay in passing the necessary order-in-council.

The United States has just extended the period of military training from 18 months to 27 months. If every young man in Canada, upon reaching the age of 17½ or 18 years were inducted into the Army, Air Force or Navy, and then released (provided there is by then no shooting war), it would not be any great loss to the labor supply. A lot of young hooligans would be taught to drive a tank or a gun tractor, instead of getting into police court for stealing cars.

Barring the advent of a great war, calling for full mobilization, we would in a few years have a fully trained reserve army of many thousands of young men. We need such a program of military training. We need it now.

Baptism of Fire

Last week Canadian troops went into action for the first time in Korea. It reminded us of a similar day, June 6, 1944, to be exact, when Canadians went into action, spouting fire and death on the bloody beaches of Normandy while Canadians at home prayed unashamedly in homes and in churches.

It isn't sufficient for us at this time to try and analyze the reasons why Canadians are fighting in another war. Our boys are "over there" now and more are soon to be despatched to Korea. They are undergoing their baptism of fire. Meanwhile civilians may soon face national registration, price and wage control, and we are sending shiploads of low-grade wheat to starving India.

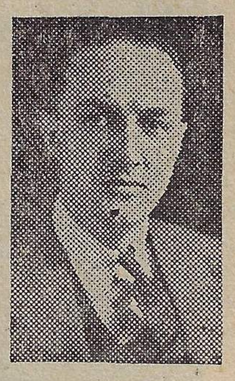

We have an idea that the Christian attitude of feeding our potential enemies is better that killing them, and cheaper in the long run. The Government is to be commended on using this method of helping forestall revolt in India while at the same time fighting to keep the peace in Korea.

Here and There

By T. W. PUE

Karl Maslyk, owner and manager of the Morinville Radiator Shop in Morinville is perhaps not a very voracious reader but nevertheless somewhat discriminating in his choice of literature.

Probably no one else in all of Alberta saw this interesting item in the Eastern daily, that had been plucked from the Peterborough Examiner. It is headed "A Bit of Advice" and reads like this:

T. W. Pue

A woman writes to an advice column asking: "What should I do when I find lipstick on my husband's shirt collar?" Our answer: remove as much of the pigment as possible with blotting paper and a hot iron, and then rub the remainder gently with soap and warm water. Oh, yes, and you might try sprucing up a bit, too.

ANOTHER DAILY—WHEN?

As I travel about the province people ask me when Edmonton will get another daily newspaper to take the place of the Edmonton Bulletin. You will remember that five weeks ago the Edmonton Journal declared they did not buy the Bulletin just after they had bought it out completely.

Well, if the Southam's were to sell the present plant to a prospective competitor (a far-fetched proposition) it would be a little bit easier for another daily to start up. But the printers have now been largely dispersed along with many key staff members, the machinery is being moved out and the Southams have a strangle-hold on the newsprint supply. They claim they didn't buy the Bulletin—but they got the life-blood of the paper—the newsprint quota, without any other publisher getting an opportunity to bid for it. I don't know how a daily newspaper could publish without newsprint.

Assuming, however, that you could get newsprint and a mechanical staff, you would still need $1,000,000.00 and two years to get organized. Would anyone like to try it?

A PROFITABLE DEAL

With absolutely no regard for the welfare of the employees of the paper they bought out, the Southam chain stands to make a cool $200,000.00 per year over and above their former profits.

By and large, daily newspapers' circulation revenues pay for the newsprint, but the Journal will get paid twice for the extra newsprint they use. A few days after the Bulletin went out of business they increased their advertising rate by about 56c per column inch, ostensibly to pay for the newsprint taken up by the extra circulation that gravitated to them with the demise of their competitor.

The extra circulation will bring them $200,000.00 per year additional revenue. Not bad—when you can gobble up the competition and increase your profits by a million dollars every five years!

Don't be surprised to see the Southam interests buy out competitors in other cities such as Vancouver, Calgary and perhaps snap up other independent papers in one-paper towns such as Medicine Hat.

WHEAT CONTRACTS

Britain is still very hard up and can't afford to pay world prices for our wheat. Hon. James Gardiner, Minister of Agriculture, was unable to get $1,000,000 more this year from the British Food Ministry. We contend that Canada can very well supply the hunger needs of the world by reduced prices and outright gifts but this should not be done at the sole expense of the wheat producer only. Pay our farmers the full market price, and pay the losses out of the whole economy of all Canadians —not just out of the pocket of the wheat farmers.

WE CAN'T WIN

The perils of publishing make an interesting subject to close this week's discussion. We recently carried news and editorial material about an issue concerning the lively towns of Mayerthorpe and Sangudo. An advertiser in Sangudo got sore at us for publishing a story giving the Mayerthorpe angle, and cancelled his advertisement to drive home his feeling into our hide where it hurts the most. Now we have a letter from Mayerthorpe demanding an explanation on why we published the Sangudo side of the argument.

As long as we are publishing a paper, we insist on our right to publish all sides of each story, as we see fit; and those who don't agree with us can register their protest with a letter to the 'Voice' column here on our right. That's fair, isn't it?

Voice of the People

"VOX POPULI, VOX DEI"

Liquor Control

Dear Sir—In regard to our cartoon you published February 16th, and your comment that it had no application to the situation in Alberta, allow me to make this reply.

Our way of handling liquor is admittedly better than that in Montreal or New York, or Reno, but still not above improvement. We are not criticizing the Liquor Control Board, nor the Hotel Keeper's Association, as such. The latter have a tough job indeed, trying to bring all their membership up to the approved standard. Naturally they don't succeed 100%. If they did beer would never be sold to minors; nor to those already under the infuence; none would ever stagger out of the parlor at 10 p.m., or any other time. Whether we can call all men who put profits above public welfare by the term "racketeers" is a fine point of the use of English. But crimes can and do originate in licensed parlors. It is because of the unhealthy nature of the product they sell. Licensing an evil does not rob it of power to do harm. And all men of goodwill should be concerned to limit that harm to the minimum. I think there will be less cause for questioning the illustration we are sending you this week re the time taken to get over three drinks. Thanking you,

ROBT. G. THOMPSON.

Money for War

Dear Sir—We have been dragged into two world wars by such people as Ex-Artillery NCO, Sangudo, who wrote about teen-age hoodlums recently.

If he had his way we would not have a free choice as to whether we go to Korea to slaughter innocent people or stay in Canada and work for peaceful prosperity. It makes little difference to me whether a self-respecting recruiting officer will want me and I'm certain that the teen-agers feel the same. They want and need recreation facilities and jobs and security. With the money they spend for war surely a portion could be allocated for these great needs. M. W. P.

Likes Editorials

Dear Sir—While we have not had the pleasure of meeting, we have a feeling of acquaintance with you having read your editorials for the past two years. I appreciate your support of Christian principles, also your outspoken view on the use of liquor as harmful for human consumption. I trust you will continue in the courage of these principles.

C. E. RAWSON.

FUA Resignations

Dear Sir—I don't think those directors should have quit the FUA over the communist issue. We need a strong organization and should stay united. We can't get anywhere with our directors quitting. JOHN ROPCEAN.

Thanks

Dear Sir—The Alberta Tuberculosis Association wishes to place on record the thanks of its Directors and members that are due to your paper and your readers who have supported us so generously again in the 1950-51 Christmas Seal campaign.

The Seal Sale is nearly over, and although the provincial total is still a few thousand dollars short of the $170,000 objective, we are confident that when all returns are in, we will again have achieved our goal. C. H. CROOKS

County Act

Dear Sir — County government is the form of local government used in the U.S.A., but it differs considerably from that proposed for Alberta. A few years ago I heard a Mystic foretell that B.C. would unite with the U.S.A. Now Astrology is predicting a union of Canada and the U.S.A., along with many other things for this decade.

In the U.S., each county has a county seat where these officials dwell and where the business is transacted. Each year the county assessor for his particular district visits each house and makes a list of all valuable things, piano, radio, gold watches, jewelry, feed, live stock, money on hand, value of real estate, chickens and dogs.

Anyone may run for any office he seeks; there are two parties. He or she in the county paper publishes a notice that such an office is desired subject to the will of the voters. A primary election is held and the person receiving the most votes for his party must run against the opponent of the opposite party and the one receiving the most votes at the general election wins. No person may hold office more than two terms in succession. A term is two years.

There is a tract of county land adjoining the county seat upon which there are buildings to house live stock, poultry, vegetables, fancy work and canned goods. There is a race track and a pavilion for the spectators. Here the county fairs are held annually. A small sum is charged for admittance, except children under twelve.

Do any of these appeal to us when we talk of changing our system of government?

Furore Rising Over Naming Of Calgary's Stampede Corral

By LORNE STOUT
(From Western Farm Leader)

What's in a name? A lot of people are asking this question throughout Alberta following the furore that has been stirred up over the naming of Calgary's new arena "Stampede Corral."

Some work for fame and greatness — others have it thurst upon them. Pompeii met disaster in the eruption of the volcano Vesuvius, Rome was burned by Nero, London had its great Plague San Francisco its earthquake, Nagasaki its atomic bomb, and Calgary the "Stampede Carral."

And, like an atom bomb, earthquake, fire and eruption, "The Corral" has rocked Calgary to its very foundations. It may have been a mere coincidence, but the Bow River for two weeks had been jammed with ice, flooding and sending people from their homes. Dynamite proved futile, but at the time the name for Calgary's new $1,400,000.00 hockey rink was announced — the ice jams in the Bow River shook loose, and there hasn't been even a threat of a flood since.

Why all the furore? It seems simply that a lot of Calgary people do NOT like the name Corral. For days after the decision was announced by the Board of Directors of the Calgary Exhibition and Stampede, it was not the favorite topic on street corners and at coffee counters— it was the ONLY topic.

The Corral had been jammed for the official opening, 8,800 to 9,000 filled all the available seats, something over 6,500, and crowded the rush space on the promenade to capacity and then some. All were duly impressed. It WAS without a doubt as fine an arena as could be found on the Continent. Perfection of planning, skilled workmanship, quality materials had been combined with due respect for both utility and beauty.

True, there was still this confusion of a name, but few at the opening hockey game, watching the home town Stampeders hand a drubbing to the league-leading Edmonton Flyers, were too greatly concerned. They had been handed ballots as they entered through the turnstiles, many sat through the game with the slips of paper in their hands, mulling over the half dozen names proposed. Some were still undecided when the game was over, and, failing to find ballot boxes, went home with the slip of paper still in their pocket or purse.

Eight thousand ballots were handed out, just over 2,700 turned in. A few days later the Exhibition and Stampede directors met to hear the result and decide, once and for all, on a name. Their decision was a compromise between "Calgary Corral" and "Stampede Gardens", and little consideration was given to Coliseum, under which the project had been started. "Gardens" was out — regardless of the vote. The majority of directors felt with New Yory, Toronto and Edmonton, to name but a few, using the name Gardens it was too stereotyped. Some directors were adamant that the word Stampede should be included — and so — "Stampede Corral" got the overwhelming vote. Some wanted "Fort Calgary", others plugged for "Chinook Arch", but there was no disagreement on one point . . . the entire Stampede Board felt the name should be something "different and original". Corral filled the bill. It was a name not to be forgotten, unusual enough to draw attention.

But it could be pointed out that Edmonton missed a bet when it failed to call the improved Edmonton Arena the "Igloo", that Regina also slipped in stringing along with the timeworn "Gardens" when "Pile O'Bones" would be much more historic and likely to attract attention, or what more suitable for Winnipeg's arena than "Fort Selkirk", "Fort Garry" or just plain 'The Fort".

AN ALBERTA FISH won a medal for Canada's Governor-General, Viscount Alexander. Here members of the Maligne River Anglers Club, pin a medal on the Governor-General for a prize-winning speckled trout landed last summer in Jasper National Park. Robert Sommerville of the Anglers Club does the honors while park superintendent G. H. L. Dempster looks on.

Driving Courses Planned By University of Alberta

Widening the field in instruction to prevent accidents, the University of Alberta will stage a course in driver training for teachers from Aug. 20 to 24 inclusive, sponsored by the Alberta Motor Association.

Arrangements have been made by the Edmonton branch, A.M.A.

Dr. Amos R. Neyhart, of State College, Pa., an internationally known authority on driver training and teacher instruction, will conduct the course, which will handle a maximum class of 40 members.

Already many teachers have signified their intention of taking the course. Commercial firms also have made inquiries as to the prospects of having one of their experienced drivers enrolled, in the hope that the training can be given to others.

The same applies to the course for teachers. Those enrolled will be qualified to teach others and thus help meet the pressing demand for persons to act as teachers in carrying on this phase of safety work.

In the U.S., the work of teacher training for driver instruction purposes is steadily expanding and as a result many have enrolled. This year, the work will be expanded.

At the same time, high school driver training courses are drawing greater enrollments, increasing the need for more teachers.

New Council Will Meet Monday Night

Len A. Walker was defeated Monday in his bid for re-election as mayor of Redwater when Nick Syrnyk polled 103 votes to Walker's 97.

Lloyd Lesnik, Roy Erickson, Eugene Hauckhausen, Walter Malowany, Alex Myroon, and Adrien Meirs were elected to council, defeating M. D. Muzyka and George McKay.

Ten candidates contested the quiet election. Mr. Malowany was the only member of the old three-man council to win re-election. Mr. Muzyka, also a member of the previous council was unsuccessful in his bid for re-election.

There was a good turnout of voters, although the campaign had been very quiet.

Of the 330 eligible voters, 201 exercised their franchise.

Mr. Lesnik lead the polls among council candidates, polling 162 votes. Mr. Erickson polled 154 votes, Mr. Hauckhausen 147 votes, Mr. Malowany 137 votes, Mr. Myroon 135 votes, and Mr. Meirs 99 votes.

Mr. Muzyka received 87 votes, and Mr. McKay 80 votes.

COUNCIL MEETS MONDAY

The new seven-man council will gather for its first meeting Monday night.

Mr. Walker's defeat by a narrow margin came as a surprising upset. He had been expected to win by a comfortable margin.

Many important decisions will face council in the forthcoming year, and not the least of them is the proposed $200,000 water and sewer project.

Also high on the list of civic projects is street improvements and street lighting.

LETTER TO LOUISA

Gay Times No Guide To Successful Marriage

Dear Louisa—I have been going with a divorced man and he has asked me to marry him.

I love him but I am worried for fear he will not be a good husband. He is fun on a party but he is always changing jobs. I understand that his first wife worked in an office all the time she was married excepting a few weeks each time the two babies were born. A friend also tells me that he does not contribute to the support of his children but that his wife and her parents support them. I hate to discuss money matters before we get married but all these rumors have me worried. What would you advise me to do?

B. L. M.

Answer:

He sounds like a mighty poor matrimonial bet to me. But let us look at the situation and give him the benefit of considering his side of things.

First, he is always changing jobs —if this means, that he gives up a poor job for a better one each time, there is nothing wrong in that but if he is an unsatisfactory worker and loses jobs because he is not dependable or efficient that is certainly one strike against him.

Next — his wife worked all of her married life. Well, some women like to work out of the home and some would rather work than live frugally on what their husbands make. On the other hand, if she had to work because she had a lazy husband who threw away what money he had on good times, that is the second strike against him.

Third — every man who brings children into the world is responsible for their support and if he is dodging that responsibility, that, to me would be the third strike against him and he would be definitely out as far as I was concerned.

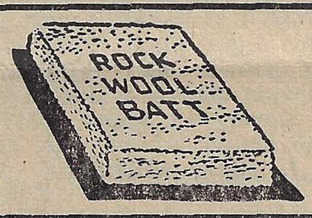

Insofar as hating to discuss money matters with a future husband before you are married, that is the best time to discuss them. You can get his idea before you take the final step and believe me, if some of the women who marry tightwads and good time Charlies knew what was in store for them, they would go on leading the single life and be happy about it.

My advice would be for you to talk to this man and find out from him if these rumors are true. If they are and you still love him enough to marry him, you will at least know what problems you have ahead of you.

LOUISA.

Pressing Pointers Helpful For Careful Homemakers

By PAULINE ROY

AN IRON is to a home sewer what a hammer is to a carpenter — an indispensable tool of the trade. When you put time into a dress or coat you want a smooth and professional-looking finished article and you'll achieve it when you press as you sew. Because pressing is such an important part of sewing, you should know all about it before you so much as buy a piece of fabric.

Now let's go over some of the basic rules for pressing. Pressing and ironing, you know, require different techniques. In pressing, the iron is lowered and raised over the same spot, not pushed along the material as in ironing. Every stitched seam should be pressed before it is crossed with another seam. Press seams in the same direction as that in which they were stitched. Skirt seams, for example, should be pressed from bottom to top. Press curved seams over a curved surface such as a pressing mitt.

Always press with the grain of the material. For instance, when pressing the surface of a four-piece bias-cut skirt, do not press straight up from bottom to top, but follow the grain which runs in a diagonal direction. Darts are usually pressed toward the center front or center back of the garment. In heavy materials they are slashed and pressed open. Underarm darts are pressed down.

Wool should be pressed moist and usually on the wrong side. Always use a press cloth on wool unless a steam iron is used. Rayon is pressed either moist or almost dry, depending on the type of rayon. Test a scrap of the material before pressing the garment. Press on the wrong side using a press cloth. Cotton and linen should be dampened and pressed on the wrong side. It is not necessary to use a press cloth with these two fabrics.

If you keep these pressing pointers in mind it should help your sewing efforts immensely. Your clothes will fit properly and skirts will hang evenly. Even a simple item like the organdy tea apron pictured above will look crisper, neater if it is pressed correctly. If you haven't done very much home sewing a simple article like this apron is a good thing to start with. All you require is a piece of flowered or patterned chintz, (a left-over will be fine), and one and a quarter yards of organdy. It makes a nice gift or it may be just the "fussy" apron you need for party occasions. For directions simply send a stamped self-addressed envelope to the Needlework Dept. of this paper requesting TEA APRON, Leaflet No. E-1681.

Early Prophet Condemned Hypocricy In Religion

Isaiah, the greatest of the Hebrew prophets, condemned hypocritical worship, just as his predecessors had done.

Amos declared: "I hate, I despise your feasts and I will take no delight in your solemn essemblies . . . But let justice roll down as waters and righteousness as a mighty stream."

Hosea said: "I desire goodness, and not sacrifice, and the knowledge of God more than burnt offerings." Micah said: "He hath showed thee, O man what is good; and what doth Jehovah require of thee but to do justly and to love kindness, and to walk humbly with thy God?"

Speaking through Isaiah, Jehovah says, "I have had enough of the burnt offerings of rams, and the fat of fed beasts; your new moons and your appointed feasts my soul hateth . . . When ye make many prayers, I will not hear: Your hands are full of blood. Wash you, make you clean; put away the evil of your doings from before mine eyes; cease to do evil; learn to do well; seek justice; relieve the oppressed; judge the fatherless; plead for the widow."

"We have all noticed the vast difference between religious ceremony and moral life," declared Frederick B. Fisher. "It may be said with truth that as the moral life of a people declines, the religious ceremony seems to increase. The history of religious reform is the story of rebellion against exessive ritual and corresponding laxity in morals. And, strangely, the older an organized religion becomes, the more ritualistic it is.

"It was this fact which aroused Isaiah. He was a prophet of ethics. He could not bear to hear the name of God mentioned at a sacred altar by wicked priests; nor could he understand how wicked laymen could enter the temple; take part in the sacred ceremonies of worship, and come forth seemingly satisfied, when their lives were openly immoral. It was an intellectual appeal that he made."

In his conversation with the Samaritan woman, at Jacob's Well, near Sychar, Jesus taught the principles of true worship. The story is familar and we are not concerned with any phase of it except the part of his conversation which deals with worship. In order to change the subject of conversation from her own personal sin and need of a savior, the woman asked Jesus to settle the long-standing dispute between the Jews and the Samaritans as to the right place in which to worship.

Jesus pointed out that God may be worshipped anywhere, the place not mattering nearly so much as the manner in which the worshipper worships he declared, "God is the spirit and they that worship him must worship him in spirit and truth." Only sincere and real worship is acceptable to God. All worshippers need to remind themselves of this fact if they grow as they should in their experience and krowledge of God.

Paul, in the writing from his prison cell in Rome to the Christians at Colossi, gave these early Christians some suggested aids to real worship. He recognized the value of "psalms and hymns and spiritual songs" in group worship, in addition to teaching and admonishing and studying the "word of Christ."

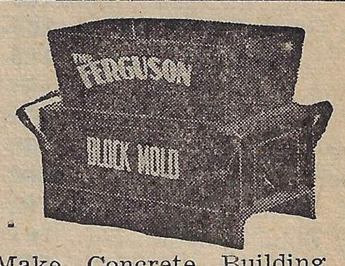

Because regular worship attendance is a definite means of Christian growth, we are urged not to forsake the assembling of ourselves together (Heb. 10:25).

IN MEMORY OF MR. ROBERT WHITFORD

Our loss is deep, our grief is long,
For we have had to part,
With a loved and worthy citizen,
Yet Memories will ever keep,
His presence far and near,
For on our hearts the years have traced,
His image strong and clear.
May Jesus bless, and God protect,
His soul, for whom we shed this tear.
No town has felt a loss more keen,
Nor lost a friend more dear.
